These colourful installations reflect experiences as a person with disability and identifying on the LGBTQ+ spectrum. Bright and dark colours represent my mixed misunderstandings from each healthcare professional. Wellness in healthcare settings, the interwoven lines of differences. Despite any negativity, I try to stay optimistic that further education and discussion about these issues will build more awareness among the healthcare community and would become more accepting of difference.